Feedback sought on possible sites for City Centre Project

Saskatoon Public Schools is seeking public input on the two potential locations for a new school to serve the King George, Pleasant Hill, and Princess Alexandra school communities.

The school division is completing site validation studies on two sites – Optimist Park and the Princess Alexandra School site. As part of the studies, test-fits have been created for each site. A test-fit is not a school design – it simply gives an idea of where a school building could be located on a property, along with other features such as the childcare centre, outdoor learning and recreational spaces, parking, and bus and drop-off areas. Some of the test-fits also include space for the Saskatoon Tribal Council, which may partner with the school division on the project to serve the community together. The test-fits can be viewed online.

The school division is asking school community members and the public to review the test-fits then share their feedback. Packages with test-fit information have been provided to all school families, who are being given an opportunity to share their thoughts through their school

Members of the public interested in learning more about the test-fits can attend the virtual Community Engagement Session on Thursday, April 29 at 7 p.m. Those interested in attending can email citycentre@spsd.sk.ca for the link to the session.

Feedback can also be submitted online through the City Centre website or can be shared via email citycentre@spsd.sk.ca.

All feedback will be gathered and presented to the board as part of the site validation studies. The Board of Education is expected to decide on the location for the new school by the end of June.
